TELETRONE No. 12.

HONGKONG, FEBRUARY 4TH, 1889.

THE preparation of the new Building Ordinance, nominally read a first time at the meet ing of the Legislative Council on the 17th ultimo, has now been completed, and the Bill is published in the Government Gazette FOURTEEN THOUSAND AND SIX HUNDRED of Saturday. It consists of ninety-one sections and several schedules. The first section repeals Ordinance No. 8 of 1856, ontitled "As Ordinance for Buildings to d Nuire-engraved in a superior style and brought up | sances," which is the law governing building in the Golony at the present time. This Ordinance requires that the walls of all houses throughout, and shall be of the thickness of not less than nine inches at the upper storey, thirteen and a half inches at the storey imme- from the Japan Mail, that the Master of Napier, diately below the upper storey, and eighteen inches at the storey (if any) immediately below the said two storeys. The natural effect PLAN OF TOWN AND ENVIRONS OF SINGAPORE. of making the thickness of the walls dependent on the number of storeys was that the An Anglo-Chinese Calendar, Mean of Barome- height of the storeys was made as great as practicable, and mezzanine floors were insected, so that a house of nominally three storeys might have in reality six floors. In the new Bill the question of mezzanine floors is definitely dealt with, the thickness of the walls is increased, and the requirements as to the material to be used are made more stringent, which is very necessary in view of the increasing height to which build ings are now being carried. The thickness of the external walls and party walls is now to constantly required by residents and those be not less than thirteen inches for the up per portion to the extent of twenty feet and for the remaining or lower portion the thickness is to increase not less than four inches for each depth of twenty feet. It the wall be built to any length exceeding fifty feet, clear of any return wall or cross wall, a thickness of thirteen inches is to be allowed only for the depth of fifteen feet, and is to increase not less than four inches for each aucceeding depth of fifteen feet. A. more than two atoreys, black bricks may be of thirty-siz feet, the remaining or lower portion to be of sound stone or red brick. The increased thickness of the walls will: afford additional security against fires spreading from one house to another, and > shall be made exclusively of light iron-work. No mezzahine floor is to be erected unless it has not less than nine vertical feet of clear anace above and below it, and existing mezzanine floors not in accordance with this requirement may be removed if they affect the safety, or health of the inmates or of the public. Doubtless there are many matters in the Bill as to which differences of opinion we think all authorities on building and sunitation will agree that the provisions of the Bill do not err on the side of rigour. In view of the order made last year as to charges to be made in respect of encroschments over Orown land, the provisions of the new Ordinance on this subject will be scanned with interest. The rigour with which the law as to foreign esidence is now being administered in Japan has been exemplified in the case of Mr. Lawrence optician, who took apartments at the Tokyo Hotel with the intention of doing business The police authorities informed him that he could not be allowed to engage in business out of the settlement, and in consequence he had to return to Yokohama.

Mrs. Hasegawa explained that she had dreamed that the house was broken into by robbers, who not only appropriated every valuable on which they could lay their hands, but offered her indignity.
